

Transcribed:

2026-09-10 06.55.50 [Korrelation zwischen Geometrie des Universums
 und Abhören ... 🌺 schamhafte Sinnpflanze bzw. Mimose].mp3

(Correlation between the geometry of the universe and eavesdropping ...
 🌺 sensitive plant or mimosa)

EN

♥ Hello my Love. ♥

It has been a long time since I made an audio recording, and I have often explained the matter of geometry. Perhaps you have noticed – probably the waves are rippling elsewhere with latency – the influence that eavesdropping has on the cosmic level/cosmic realm. I cannot recall the German name for this flower; back home we call it தொட்டி [Thottaarchurungi] (🌺 the bashful sensitive plant or Mimosa pudica), a flower that curls up when touched. Eavesdropping is similar in this respect – that is, the act of eavesdropping alters the geometry of the cosmos.

The problem is that it is very complex, yet this is how diseases like Alzheimer's and dementia arise: you try to listen in on people, and the divine aspect closes itself off – meaning the geometry changes. Consider the pretzel-like shape of a trumpet, which serves to amplify the sound. In that instance, the effect is constructive, whereas in other cases it is destructive; this leads to situations where someone receives preferential treatment they do not deserve.

A form of injustice emerges here – one that grows insidiously over a long period. I do not wish to specify a timeframe; it can happen quickly. It depends on the quality and value of all current births (rebirth). (Not all Jivatmans constantly participate in rebirths; some do so only to bring humanity back on course.) It also depends on the circumstances. You may sense how many entities communicate through me – channelling through my mind (body) and emerging as spoken words from my mouth (the subconscious is structured similarly, though the blinds are drawn, so the root causes remain unknown). This is also the issue with the arrogance and ignorance of an individual who thinks, or even voices aloud:

[in an arrogant tone:] "I said all that." (The content of the audio recording)

[with an ignorant tone:] "I said all of that." (The content of the audio recording)

So, this geometry of the cosmos – this alteration caused by the act of listening – is what causes people to be born blind, to take just one example. This geometric shift leads, at some point along the lines or within the circles, to blindness, mutism (where someone cannot speak), and deafness (where someone cannot hear).

Some changes are permanent – like a dent in a trumpet – though even these can be corrected to some extent; others are lamellar (and temporary) in nature, yet I have observed that these lamellae can sometimes become stuck. This state of being stuck can also arise from a deformation of the space – likely due to Doshas.

Many different things come into play here, one is the Jivatman, i.e. the personalized, individualized soul, an Amsam of the cosmic. Amsam means being part of being (a subset of something), in its basic form it already belongs to something, it is Amsam from the heart, Amsam from the mind and so on, i.e. from the cosmic heart, cosmic mind, cosmic hearing, perhaps this is shared in Pancha Buddha, I don't want to define it here, I just want to explain it using a model and pictures.

What I am trying to say by this is that the individual is not a single atom but consists of many molecules.

Then, when you are reborn – where conditions differ – it may be that the threads shaping your body, mind, and so forth (that is, the many entities constituting an individual – entities bundled or  anchored with the body yet not necessarily visible in the sense of being physically tangible, perhaps more like air, though air is physically tangible or detectable) come together to form a collective.

The problem is the gaslighting by mainstream science, even though much of this is also explained in the Vedas.

Imagine you have a large shopping bag; you put milk in it – which is itself packaged – and that represents your body. Then, all sorts of other things belonging to that shopping trip go in there, much like DNA. That bag holds the entire program – or framework, a term I prefer. Just as not everything possible within that framework is included in a single specific program, not everything in your DNA necessarily manifests in your body or mind; it is very much like that shopping trip. You buy items that are part of the haul, yet you use them for various different dishes. It is similar with DNA: certain attributes might manifest in your child, or perhaps only in later generations. Okay? That is a complex topic.

♥ I love you my Love. ♥

